

With the evolution of AI and ML, there is a growing need for a full-scale, data-driven transformation of management styles.

At the same time, the realization of this transformation requires a variety of changes and faces many barriers.

This session will introduce Fujitsu's governance transformation efforts from the three perspectives of "management," "operations," and "IT," and examine the important steps to take in order to evolve to data-driven management.