

Technology often evolves by reflecting the world's expectation and excitement. When people witness the new technology, they will be inspired and start to think of its possibility and its potential. Such a positive reaction will become the driving force for the advancement of the technology, as well as the business transformation would be required to along the innovation and society. In this talk, I will introduce the recent technology environment in the lesson from our company history and its future direction.