Mr. Ken Komazawa

Vice President Group-IT, IT Strategy Office,
Technology Planning Department,
Nippon Telegraph and Telephone Corporation (NTT)

【TOGAF® 9 Certified】

Ken Komazawa joined NTT Corporation in 1997. After working for another subsidiary, NTT Comware for 7 years, he now leads the IT Promotion Office at NTT. Ken is a highly regarded engineer and consultant who has been heavily involved in the major development, construction and consultant of the security systems for NTT subsidiaries. He has contributed considerable research in network security and has published "Security guidance for identity management in cloud computing" with Japan Network Security Association (JNSA). He is an associate member of Identity Management for Information Security Working Group of JNSA (https://www.jnsa.org/active/std_idm.html).

He has been serving for the IT governance, from IT strategic planning to application portfolio management, carrying out systematic integration and cost optimization for the entire NTT group. Form 2014, Ken served to visualize group company management information, including domestic and overseas subsidiaries, and awarded the Data Management Award from Japan Data Management Consortium (JDMC) in 2018.